

Using AI to augment natural intelligence concerns: unequal access, more unethical behavior, different classes of humans

Gov computer ethics involves: protection and empowerment

Geographical technology advances to the iPhone such as user location and directional software have improved augmented reality

A statement that highlights an organization's key ethical issues and identifies the overarching values and principles that are important to the organization and its decision-making? Code of ethics

The concept that an organization should act ethically by taking responsibility for the impact of its actions on its shareholders, consumers, employees, community, environment, and suppliers? Corporate social responsibility

A code of behavior that is defined by the group to which an individual belongs? Ethics

A process whereby an organization reviews how well it is meeting its ethical and social responsibility goals and communicates its new goals for the upcoming year? Social audit

A risk-based strategy that includes an occupant emergency evacuation plan, a continuity of operations plan, and an incident management plan with an active governance process to minimize the potential impact of any security incident and to ensure business continuity in the event of a cyberattack or some form of disaster? Business continuity plan

Business processes that are more pivotal to continued operations and goal attainment than others? Mission critical

A set of programs that enables its user to gain administrator-level access to a computer without the end user's consent or knowledge? Rootkit

An evaluation of whether or not an organization has a well-considered security policy in place and whether or not it is being followed? Security audit

V of big data: Volume, velocity, veracity, variety, variability, value, validity, volatility

Ethics thinking is principles based; compliance thinking is rule-bound and legalistic. A compliance orientation can undermine ethical thinking

Compliance can squeeze out ethics

Managers may not consider tougher issues that a more ethics-focused approach might require.

The specific tasks of this framework are to help us understand ourselves as the people we are, to set goals for the type of people we ought to become, and to suggest what are the significant steps we should take to achieve these ends: Virtue ethics

What is moral is what makes us the best person: virtue ethics

Deontology: right acts have maxims that can be universalized, right acts always treat humans as ends in themselves and never a means, people are free only if they act rationally, ethics is a matter of duties

What is morally right is what generates the best outcome for the largest number of people:
Utilitarianism

Santa Clara University 5 step process for ethical decision making: Recognize, get facts, evaluate alternatives, make/test decisions, act/reflect

Restorative justice: reforming criminals to be moral members of society

Which of the following is a strategic benefit of having an ethical organization? Brand loyalty

The moral values, beliefs, and rules that establish the appropriate way for an organization and its members to deal with each other and with people outside of the organization: Organizational ethics

Threat to data: Intended release of sensitive data or the access of sensitive data by unauthorized individuals

What is a critical ethical decision when a cyberattack occurs? Notifying the public may cause bad publicity and lose customers

,